WITH SUMMER HERE, everyone takes vacations, including your Editor. That's why we're having longer than usual deadlines between issues. Years ago, there was a proposal made that all publishers take a "holiday" in August, but the consensus was that it would be better if each publisher set his own pace, since we don't all go away in August. We were away in Virginia Beach and Williamsburg, Va. for eight days near the end of June. Then, we went to New York for four days over "Liberty Weekend" to attend the Mensa Convention. We knew we'd need time to recover from the latter, which is why we set the current Deadline for July 14th.

There'll be a 5-week deadline to August 20th for the next moves. There's no use trying for an earlier deadline, as we'll be gone again for most of the month of September. You're going to have to settle for a September 30th deadline at that time, so we decided to make the deadlines between August and September as short as possible.

We have a batch of material on hand, so we'll see how many of them we have the space to print. One thing you'll find is an Avalon Hill ad. This is the first time we've ever run a commercial ad in BUSH. However, this one is wacky enough to appeal to our warped mind. For printing this, A-H will send us some Award Certificates, which we can pass on to the winners of our various games and contests! So, read and enjoy.

SPACE NEWS ROUNDUP

ASTEROID 3129 named for Chesley Bonestell. The Planetary Society held a contest to select a name for this asteroid, which had been "donated" to the Society by its discoverer, Eleanor Helin of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. The winning name is to honor the dean of astronomical painters, Chesley Bonestell, who is still living and painting at the age of 98. His illustrations for Willy Ley's classical book, The Conquest of Space (1949), are considered by many to have been the spark that started interest in space travel in the general population beyond the borders of SF fandom. Some of his paintings are on permanent display at the Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Bonestell responded by saying he was glad the rules didn't require one to be dead to have an asteroid named after you, as would be the case with a moon crater and most other astronomical objects. (I presume if you live to be 90 you're eligible, since most life insurance policies terminate at 89). The original designator for Asteroid 3129, by the way, was 1979MK2, which sounds like a certain game we all know.

SEVEN OTHER RECENTLY DISCOVERED ASTEROIDS have now been officially named for the crew members of the Challenger. These are asteroids which had been discovered at the Lowell Observatory in Arizona, between 1980 and March 1984, using the same 13" telescope which was used to discover Pluto in 1930. There is usually quite a time lag between an asteroid's discovery and its official naming, with the discoverer having the final say-so on its name. In the beginning, the minor planets were all given classical names, but they ran out of such names years ago.

The new official names are: 3350 - Scobee, 3351 - Smith, 3352 - McAuliffe, 3353 - Jarvis, 3354 - McNair, 3355 - Onizuka, and 3356 - Resnik. All are main belt objects except McAuliffe, which is an "Apollo" type, meaning it comes close to Earth's orbit every 7 or 8 years.

THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT MAY "USURP" most of the Shuttle payloads between 1987 and 1989 for their own purposes. The current Administration obviously places a higher value on bashing Commies than scientific research. While the Hubble Space Telescope remains safe, the fate of two extremely important probes, Galileo to Jupiter and Ulysses to study Sol's polar regions, are now in doubt. These were to be the first interplanetary probes launched by the United States since 1976. They are both powered by nuclear generators which have already been powered up. A two-year delay in their launching may cause the isotopes in the power supply to run "dry" before the ends of their missions. Why not refuel them? Well, gentlemen, that would be expensive, and we have a little thing called Gramm-Rudman which prevents us from spending the money... so, they may not get launched at all. Won't there be screams of indignation when all these discoveries are made by Russia, Japan and the European Space Agency? Let's face it, under Ronald Reagan America isn't even going to be No. Two in the space race.

COMPUTER PROCESSED IMAGE of the star Beta Pictoris shows a disc of gas orbiting the star out to at least a distance of 400 Astronomical Units. By comparison, Pluto is only 50 AU's from our Sun. Beta Pictoris, about 50 light years from Sol, is a comparatively new star, only a few hundred million years old, so it's possible that what we are seeing is a scenario in which the gas and dust has not yet settled down and formed a solar system. In any case, this is good hard evidence that such clouds circle other stars. Similar gas/dust clouds have been found surrounding Vega and Formalhaut. Still better evidence of other planetary systems will become available once the Hubble Space Telescope is launched. Unfortunately, this now appears to have been delayed for at least one year from the original October 1986 launch date by the Challenger disaster.

A POTPOURRI OF ITEMS

NORTH AMERICAN VARIANT BANK NEWS. I do have copies of the Draft Version of the 1986 Catalog available for sale, at $3.00 each. I regret that I still don't have any nicely printed final versions available, but the information is identical in either form. Since I've been out of town so much, I haven't had time to get certain problems resolved.

I have received several new Diplomacy Variants from the Custodians of the U.K. and Dutch Variant Banks. If I can just get a few days to go through them, I should have a supplemental list of games to add to the main Catalog shortly. There is already a short supplement, but the next one will be much longer.

ATLANTICON '86 was held in Trenton, N.J., over the weekend of June 21st. Paul Kenny writes to say he attended. He reports there were only 35 players in the Diplomacy Tournament's First Round. Perhaps it was held too soon after MaryCon, since both Cons covered essentially the same geographic area.

FIRST CONTACT? The Gorilla Foundation has been communicating with two gorillas in their preserve near Woodside, California, using American Sign Language. Some of these episodes have been seen on TV and in the NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC, which ran that famous photo of Koko and her kitten, All Ball, on the cover of its January 1985 issue. It's tragic to learn that just as man is starting to learn how to contact these creatures, they are on the verge of being wiped out in the wild. It is estimated that there are only about 240 mountain gorilla left in the wild, all in one small area of Africa, and they will probably be extinct within 15 years. The local government either cannot or will not protect them from poachers. The zoo populations may be all that's left of this species by the year 2000. They appear to have the intelligence of three or four year-old humans, judging from the transcripts of their conversations. We seem to have done much better in gorilla communication than in our efforts to talk to dolphins.

One of the truly amazing things the investigators have learned is that gorillas are aware of their own mortality. It has always been said that no animal knew of death until the moment of its own dying. They have also created new signs, such as "waterbird," which was Koko's invention when she saw a flamingo. It would seem that the xenobiologists ought to get into this program, if for no other reason that to learn how to contact aliens. How can we expect to talk with little green men if we can't even talk to our own primates?

If you want more information on how you can help, write to: The Gorilla Foundation, Washington, D.C. 20070-2025.

IT'S AN ILL WIND. One good thing came out of the recent folding of the Baltimore News-American. The Baltimore Sun picked up most of their comic strips. Now, once again, we can read the hobby's favorite strip, "Hagar the Horrible," as well as other old favorites like "Blondie" and "Prince Valiant." We always read the Sun, since it had much better news coverage than the Hearst paper, but we did miss "Hagar."

→ QUIZ ANSWER: What was so special about the 16th Bavarian Reserve Infantry Regiment? That was the unit in which Corporal Adolf Hitler served in World War I. There were no correct answers.

HOW DO YOU RATE THE IMPORTANCE OF NEUTRALS?

In my opinion, there is a hierarchy of Neutral Supply Centers, running from Belgium at the top to Tunis at the bottom, in their importance. However, if one were playing Italy Tunis would be a very important SC, while the Russian player might say that Rumania was the most important dot to capture. So, instead of individual Centers, I've grouped most of them into clusters. My ratings are based on their long-term overall importance, rather than their importance to a single Power. Here is how I'd rate these groups: 1. Belgium/Holland, 2. Serbia/Greece, 3. Denmark/Norway/Sweden, 4. Spain/Portugal, 5. Bulgaria/Rumania (4 & 5 are tied), 6. Tunis.

Revealed AT LAST! Secret SECRETS of POWER IN GAMING!

Why Reveal This Secret?

Because of consumer DEMAND! Game Players come up to US at every GAME CONVENTION to ask, "How come all Avalon Hill GAME Tournaments ARE WON BY Avalon Hill Game players ONLY? Rather than risk PHYSICAL injury and continued MENTAL harassment, we have no choice but to DIVULGE this secret SECRET that, incidentally, VERY FEW people know about.

Why all the CAPITALS?

Because people who are reading this ad are LOSERS, and they're the type that will have less trouble UNDERSTANDING it if it is written in BIG letters.

Why BOTHER with LOSERS?

Because even the Mets go on a HOT STREAK occasionally! And the WINNER of an AH Classic 500 was once a POSTER CHILD for birth Control! ANYONE can turn it around. All it takes is KNOWING the secret SECRETS to building confidence, which leads to fame, fortune, and GIRLS!

Why Do We Emphasize GIRLS?

Because at GAME conventions there aren't hardly ANY AT ALL . . . except standing at the side of those in the lead at the Avalon Hill GAME Tournaments. Girls ADMIRE those who can render an opponent impotent in "Stalingrad" at the Nemunas . . . after 14 turns yet! Holding your ground at Quatra Bras in "Waterloo" against seemingly unsurmountable odds, creates high ESTEEM in the eyes of idolatrous women. To watch YOU successfully snatch the Boston & Maine in "Rail Baron," or have the chutzpah to declare you'll win as Italy in Diplomacy, is just the type of DECISIVENESS everyone respects. GIRLS will especially admire your MASTERY and LACK of inadequacy and will almost certainly let you put your hand on their thighs out of utter ADMIRATION. And while we can't ABSOLUTELY guarantee this, it's extremely likely and would make LEARNING OUR SECRETS certainly worthwhile.

HOW Do I Learn?

It's "How Do YOU Learn." WE already know, and this is what we're trying to convince YOU to send us a buck to find out.

HOW do YOU Learn?

We will send you ABSOLUTELY free, a full-color GAME Catalog we think best suited to your MENTALITY and CHARISMA. All we ask is a good will donation of $1.00 to cover the cost of postage & HANDLING

APPLY this Secret in Your SPARE Time

That's right! Up to 10 HOURS a day is all you need. Lose up to 24-lbs. a week (some gamers do a 3-day convention without eating at all); INCREASE your I.Q. within the FIRST DAY (just figuring out the rules).

Great GIFTS

Since MOST of you reading this ad already know about us, and you think we're pretty dumb to waste money doing this bit, CONSIDER the fact that 50% of Avalon Hill games are given as XMAS GIFTS. That percentage is lower in the summer. Regardless of the time of year, to play an Avalon Hill Game is a challenge, to GIVE one a subtle COMPLIMENT. We compliment YOU for reading this far, and seriously urge you to send the coupon to read up on the very LATEST in the way of quality Avalon Hill products.

FREE COUPON OFFER!

- This coupon is FREE. To get the Full-color Game Catalog I enclose just $1.00. I understand that if I am not completely satisfied I have been had.

WE ARE LISTENING ((song of the radio telescopes))

As our metal eyes wake
to absolute night,
where whispers fly
from the beginning of time,
we cup our ears to the heavens.
Avid, we are listening

On the volcanic lips of Flagstaff,
and in the fields beyond Boston,
in a great array that blooms
like coral from the desert floor,
on highwire webs patrolled
by computer spiders in Puerto Rico.

We are listening for a sound
beyond us, beyond sound

searching for a lighthouse
in the breakwaters of uncertainty,
an electronic murmur,
a bright, fragile, I am.

Small aa tree frogs
staking out one end
of an endless swamp,
we are listening

through the longest night
we imagine, which dawns between the life and times of stars.

• • •

In mind gardens
and on real verandas
we are listening,
rapt among the persian lilacs
and the cricketa,
while radio telescopes
roll their heads, as if in anguish.

With our scurrying minds and our lidless will
and our lank, floppy bodies
and our galloping yens
and our deep, cosmic loneliness
and our starboard hearts
where love careens,
we are listening,
the small bipeda
with the giant dreams.

HOBBY NEWS

There is now a third Novice Handbook available. This is called "A Word to the Wise," by Elmer Hinton. It was produced as issue #100 of KAISSA, in May 1985, but I did not get to read it until May of 1986. This is a 14,000 word article covering 21 pages of text in his zine. There are ten sections and two appendices. I find most of the article well written and interesting. (With the exceptions of the books written by Peery, Walker and Richard Sharp, it's probably the longest Diplomacy piece written by a single person). My only disagreement would be with Appendix B, in which Elmer states that the revised Convoy rules in the 1982 (sic) Rulebook, XII.4, 5, and 6, should be ignored by Postal GM's, since they make Diplomacy into a variant. Allan Calhamer gave an explanation of these new Rules at the 1986 DipCon which clarified how they should be interpreted. All that's necessary would be to have Calhamer's interpretation added as an Example to the 1982 (really 1983) Rulebook.

Copies of "A Word to the Wise" are still available from Elmer Hinton for $3.00. Send your orders to him at: 20 Almont St., Nashua, N.H. 03060.

THE NEW PUBLISHERS' HANDBOOK should be available from Bruce Linsey this month. Anybody planning to publish a zine should obtain a copy first. About 20 people have contributed articles to this compendium. Some are original, and a few are taken from back issues of DIPLOMACY WORLD and elsewhere. I think the price is $3.00. Send your orders to Bruce at: 73 Ashuelot St., #3, Dalton, Mass. 01226.

L'IMPERIALISME II-B, 1984H xm16

FINAL COMMENTS

ROBERT CHEEK (Germany): I think it would improve the game if each Power had only one African Supply Center, i.e. just one unit in Africa at the start of the game. Then, people would have to ally with each other, rather than ignoring what went on there.

GM: I regret that I did not receive a Winner's statement from Kevin Kozlowski. I think this is the first BUSHWACKER game where one was not received. Kevin has received his Winner's Certificate. Mark Keller wrote to say he was sorry the game had to end so suddenly and without universal agreement. I was disappointed, too, but I felt I had no choice here. No other end-game comments were received.

I believe the suggestion for limiting each Power to one starting unit in Africa, combined with a slight decrease in the total number of SC's, would make this a better game.

I have not tested this, but off the top of my head I'd say that Rhodesia, Sudan and Tunis would be the most likely candidates for demotion to ordinary spaces. This would reduce the total number of SC's to 50, and the V.C. to 26. Turkey would start with two Fleets instead of one. And I would keep my use of Iberia as the 7th Great Power instead of Russia, as we did in "II-B."

This modification would be "L'Imperialisme III." If anyone would care to make any further suggestions or modifications, please drop me a line. If I complete a revision of the map and rules, I'll let you know. Otherwise, that wraps it up for 1984H xm16. My thanks again to the players who slugged it out, and especially to two of the standby players, Mark Keller and Brad Wilson, who took over somewhat hopeless positions, but never said die.

* * * * *

ATTENTION ALL PLAYERS: You are reminded that the designation of a unit must include whether it is an Army or Fleet. Merely naming its starting space is insufficient. I also wish you would show the moving unit first in your orders, followed by a list of the units supporting that move. Also, use a separate sheet of paper for each set of orders, please. Your press must be on the same page or pages with your orders for that game. This is your last warning.

SPRING 1905 Revisited: The TURKISH move F Smyrna-Aegean Sea should have been underscored. Adjacent parties were notified by postcard.

GM'S NOTE: Players are reminded that Rule 5 provides that the game will end after the Winter 1912 adjustments, if it has not ended earlier, since we start running out of Event Cards by that time. 84 cards will have been dealt by Winter 1911, assuming there are still seven players in the game, out of the 100-odd we're using. I wouldn't want to see every card used in a game. It's the constant variation in which cards come up that make each game unique.

Rule 5 also provides that if the players unanimously agree to a continuation, it can continue. You may recall that before the game started, I asked everyone if you wanted to play beyond 1911 (the original ending date, before the rules were revised). Only one person replied, and his vote was "Yes." How about everybody sending in a vote with your Winter 1905 orders. "YES" = game should continue beyond W 12. "NO" = game should end in W 12. Also, let me have your opinion on whether we should reshuffle the deck at that point even if the "Reshuffle" card (#15) has not been played.

This month's definition: A Strike... an effort to increase egg production by strangling the chicken.

BUSHWACKER: We'll grant equal time to a definition from a Union member, if you wish.

AMSTERDAM: It's so hard to know what to build when everyone wants to be friends. Guess I'll just have to equivocate... till we find out who's fibbing.

MAD DUTCHMAN to the Slippery Swede: Waiting, with bated breath, for an explanation.

SCANDINAVIA to Ireland: I never speak falsehood, but I do not tell the truth to everyone.

SCANDINAVIA to Slavs: The paths of glory at least lead to the grave, but the paths of duty may not get you anywhere!

DEADLINE for SPRING 1986 orders is WEDNESDAY, August 20, 1986. Telephone deadline is Tuesday, August 19th, at 9:00 p.m. Eastern Time. I already have tentative orders on hand for Spring from Ireland, Slavs and Spain.

WE HAD SEVERAL ARTICLES we would have liked to have published in this issue, including a "chart" you can use to calculate your lifespan, and another bit on comic strips. However, we're out of space. Maybe next month we can run an extra page to get 'em in.

We had a good time at the Mensa National Convention in New York over the 4th of July weekend. There will be a report in DIPLOMAG, the Mensa DipSIG newslettr. If you'd like a copy, send me 50¢ or 25¢ and a SASE (business size). We are not going to be able to make it to PeeriCon, so we send our regrets to our friends in California.

BUSHWACKER MAILING CODE: (P) = Player or Standby. (T) = Trade or Mutual Sub. (C) = Complimentary copy. (SUB) = Subscription copy. (S) = Sample copy.
